

NAYLOR & BREEN BUILDERS, INC.

Royalton Public Safety Facility
Royalton, VT

This project involved the construction of a 10,000 sf wood frame building to contain offices for the Vermont State Police and the Fish and Wildlife Department. The building also has two holding cells, a processing room, secure room, a large public conference room and a climate controlled computer room with a suspended access floor. The exterior of the building has Hardiplank siding, brick, splitface block, and cast stone. The electrical work included state-of-the-art security systems with remote cameras, monitors, access readers, bullet proof glass and alarm system. This building also includes a backup generator capable of running the entire facility. A 1,200 sf storage building was also constructed as part of this project.

Project: Royalton Public Safety Facility

Owner: State of Vermont
Department of Buildings & Grounds
John Ostrum

Architect:
Arnold & Scangas Architects
Rebecca Arnold
(802) 655-1061

Project Manager:
Peter Breen
Superintendent:
Bill Casavant